

Goodfellows begin fundraisers

WAYNE GOODFELLOWS ARE working with several groups to insure that there is "no child without a Christmas" in the city of Wayne. Bob Dunn has organized a contest between the different bars in the city. They each have a stack of green cardboard Christmas trees. They can be purchased for $1 each and hung up. People write their name on the tree and hopefully a forest will grow. You can also purchase a tree for someone else or in memory of someone.

TIM REYNOLDS IS the party planner...He has five different parties planned. The first one is sponsored by AFSCME at the Moose Hall Nov. 29 Sue Dubke is chairman of this event. Local 900 will have their party at DJ's on Nov. 30. D.J. and Enoch Doane, who are the owners, are sponsoring a party at their lounge (the former Olde Wayne Saloon) all day on Nov. 25. There will be raffles, auctions and a percentage of food and drink profits donated to the Goodfellows at each party. Best of all, you do not have to belong to any group to participate. You're welcome to attend and participate whenever you can.

Goodfellow pins for $1 each are on sale and raffle tickets for $1 each are also on sale all over town. If you or your group will sell them, please contact Elmer Daniels at the fire station. Call, 722-1111. Your help is needed.

SANTA CLAUS IS coming to town the day after Thanksgiving, when the Wayne Jaycees present the 14th annual Christmas parade. Patrick Willis, and Dennis and Nora Cecil are co-chairmen of this event and hope to hear from many of you. Call 721-2289 if your group or business wants to participate. Dennis says he and Dan Randall at the police department have worked out a new route. The parade will begin at the courthouse, head south on Second Street to Glenwood, west on Glenwood to Wayne Road and move across town. That gives shoppers and parade watchers more room to watch.

Dave Carrick says that the Palace Theater will handle the Santa Claus float once again. I wonder who will appear as Santa? Fire Marshall Wayne Bennett had that honor last year.

Cathy Karas will be filming the parade for cable television and it will show on channel 11 the following week.

The Rev. Ray Bucon, of St. Mary's, is a man of many talents...Have you caught his juggling act, yet?

RETIREMENT PLANS HAVE been announced by Ken Warfield, who has served as deputy director of the Wayne Fire Department for the past 10 years. Ken and his wife, Goldie, who has an accounting business in town, will continue to live in Wayne part of the time and spend some weeks at their new home in Corbin, Kentucky. Because Ken's birthday is Feb. 22, like George Washington, before the government started tinkering with it, he calls his lovely retirement home, Mount Warfield.

Tickets for the dinner/dance honoring Ken are $25 and can be ordered through the fire division. Call 722-1111 or stop in to buy them. The party is scheduled for Dec. 2.
